Chaliapin in a Powerful Number-Gaili-Curct Records an Exacting Melody-Zimbalist Plays an Elgar Classic

S OMEWHAT in contrast to former years, the new December record releases are not particularly rich in Christmas music, as such. But the program is a broad one, with plenty to occupy both music student and layman, Incidentally we welcome the student and layman, ens from Seville) from Massenet's "Don Cerar de Bacon."

Nowadays a program is hardly considered to be complete without something Russian and when the varies is also Russian, that consummates it. There is something pat about Chaliapina singing "In the Town of Kacan" from "Boris Godounou" on a December record, both because the melody is typically Russian and because this artist himself was born in Kacan. There, as a young child, he worked as a cobbler's apprentice. The song, in a way, is a classic among hae-room duties, for Varlaam, a recreant monk, sings it in melodious, if, half-savage, bass, between draughts of youka at an inn on the Varlaam, a recreant monk, sings it in melodious, if, half-savage, bass, between draughts of vodka at an inn on the Russian frontier. It opens whimsically, tipsily, but gathers force, trombones thundering a rough sort of dance beneath the narrative. For all its dramatic force, Chaliapin never sacrifices the tonal beauty of one single nore throughout the record.

As a companion record, in subject at least, is Amelita Galli-Curci's singing of the Prayer and Barcarolle from Meyerheer's "L'Etoile du Nord" (Star of the North). But although the story is Russian, the music is in Meyerbeer's "L'Etoile du Nord" (Star of the North). But although the story is Russian, the music is in Meyerbeer's "L'atoile du Nord" (Star of the North). But although the story is Russian, the music is in Meyerbeer's Italian style, a slow, soft, tender melody, sung against the scintillating tones of a harp, giving way later to a brilliant, rather chromatic coloratura melody with a bright, dancing rhythm. So great is the contrast, in manner, between the prayer and the barcarolleghant the record is further interesting in that it really demands two vocal styles. It takes a Galli-Curci to exhibit both in their perfection.

If it is possible to put the sense of memory into music, Mischa Elman does it on his latest record, "Fond Recollections." It is first in slow, short phrases, like wondering questions and half-breathless answers, as of a mind communing with itself. It is a charming composition, Viennese in style, set for the violin with the orchestra, without embellishment of any kind.

Mischa Elman has a little pocket violin, probably one of the smallest viol-instruments in existence. The largest, most likely, is the double-bass in the collection of Carl Fischer, exhibited recently in New York: It is eleven feet, seven inches long, the strings are nearly as thick as cigars, and the bridge is a foot high.

The warmth and color of the Riviera have been incorporated in "Sercnade" of which Gisli makes a recent record. Good King Wenceslaus' storied snow drifts melt before the warm tones of this fragrant melody, from under the Mediterranean sum. Gigli sings it to a small orchestra, a violin, a flute, a 'cello, mandolins and guitars. This kind of record combines the very easence of poetry, romance and history. Another record that gives gracious support to Shelley's promise of Spring is a new duet by Mme. Louise Homer and hersdaughter, Mme. Louise Homer and hersdaughter, Mme. Louise Homer and hersdaughter, Mme. Louise Homer stress. "Go, Pretty Rove" is a daintily impetuous English love-lyric, suggestive of a rose arbor, the soprano opening it. giving the rose, its message. There is a soft rush of single melody, a flute tripping about the voice. After a celesta note or two the contralto joins in half-imitative but delicious harmony, the flute cooing, here and there, a still softer straint.

Orville Harrold's December record is of the popular concert-room, and homeparlor type. In other words, it might the flute cooing, here and there, a smi softer strain.

Orville Harrold's December record is of the popular concert-room, and home-parlor type. In other words, it might be described as an English berearolle in late. Victorian style. "Tell Her I Love Her So" is shealthy and charming love ditty, in vigorous, almost rollicking rhythm, the smooth tenor voice and an equally smooth trombone passing melodies back and forth with perfect mutual case and understanding.

Music like Olga Samaroff's latest Victor Record of Grieg's "Nocturne" baffles description. It is one of this composer's most subtly exquisite nocturnes. Strange, half-mystical bits of melody, passed from hand to hand, trill-like arabesques and fantasies, these had best be left to the ear of the listener, properly to judge this lovely plano solo.

Wolf-Ferraria "Jewels of the Madona" has tended to obscure in popularity his other works, and it is a prividonna" has tended to obscure in popularity his other works, and it is a privilege to be able to enjoy at home so delightful a record as the overture from this composer's "Severe of Swagemer" is nominally suggestive conduct to give you some idea of this state. La Scala Orchestra, directed by Arturo Toscanini, plays it, a light, brilliant, vivacious but never raucous composition. vacious but never raucous composition.

Again we turn in December 10 warmer climes and milder moods on a new Victor Record. While great poems do not always make a great song for reasons of English euphony, kipling's Cockney love-lyric, "On the Road to Mandalay" is one of the great love poems of the tongue that has been-set to a melody like the song of a tramping army. Reinald Werrenrath sings it in commanding and worthy style, with a cokney accent as perfect as everything he does.

Dances-And Many Of Them

Of Them

A NOTHER waltz and a new orchestra make their appearance simulaneously on the dance lists in December. Whiteman's: "Three-O'clock in the Morning" was such a refreshing "novelty" to us old-timers that we used up pretty near a pack of needles on it the first day we fetched it home. In December the Great White Way-Orchestra makes its bow with the Victor, first with "Lovely Lucerne," a lovely waltz, as fresh and outstanding as a mountain meadow. There are bits of yodelling by human voice and by saxophone. On the reverse of this record Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra have skillfully-blended some melodies of a phone. On the reverse of this record Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra have skilffully. blended some melodies of a seemingly Hungarian or Polish gypsy origin, with Oriental touches, into an American dance, rhythm in "Romany. Love," an exceedingly beautiful record. On a record of its own again the Great White Way Orchestra is heard, first in "I'll Be In My Dixic Home Again Tomorrow," jolly in tune, with interesting modulations, and sonte extrawork for the piano. On the other side. "You Gave Me Your Heart" has a habanero rhythm; something like a fast tango. Neither of these records has anything freakish and they are played with a fine sense of dancers' needs. The Whitemans make another fine record in due keeping with their own exacting standards. These are regular-lose trots one a medicy scored with saxophone harmonies trumpet effects, and string melodies, handled with that definite and peculiarly "Whiteman" method. "Blowing Bubbles All Dog Long" and "Just As Long As You Hove Me" are essentially Whiteman."

For general versatility we com-mend the Whitemans to your atten-tion. Half-a-dozen of its members can play fifty-odd instruments be-tween them. And more than that, they know where to use them, which largely explains the richly colorful effects of the scorings of all Whiteman records. كنانا النها وكهاب فاست

as loud, slow, brassy, in the best con-temporary jazz manner, in the newer rhythm of the dance. On this record, too, the Virginians set down a more moderate tune, "Gee! But I Hate to Go Home Alone," with smooth har-monies in which the wood winds pre-dominate.

ney love-lyric, "On the Road to Manda lay" is one of the great love poems of the tongue that has been set to a melody like the song of a tramping army. Reinald Werrenrath sings it in commanding and worthy style, with a Cockney accent as perfect as everything he does.

Sir Edward Elgar's "Salut d'Amour" whitch Elrem Zimbalist plays on a new December record, has been a favorite concert number—for many years. Its sweet, pure phrases adapt themselves to Zimbalist's style as though it had been written for him.

new record by his archestra may not yet? You at first, but eventually it will. "All Over Nothing At All" on the other side by the Great White Way Orchestra will lead you into the dance as a skater takes smooth ice.

Audiences who heard Maria Jeritza, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, at her last appearance in Vienna before sailing for America a few weeks ago, paid high for the privilege. The occasion was a performance of Lo Fosca at the old Royal Opera House, to hear which her admirers paid 140,000,000 kronen. A place in the lodges brought 900,000 kronen; in the orchestra, 300,000 kronen;

To Celebrate The Christmas

Christmas

Two fine old Christian hymns, each complete on its own side of a new Victor Record are a splendid addition to the library of recorded sacred music. They are sung in the "good old-fashioned" Christmas style by Trinity Male Choir. "Christians Awake" and "Watchman, Tell Us of the Night" will take the place of the wait singers in many a home this season, set to chimes, an orchestra and the organ.

Another beautiful sacred record to appear in December is Lucy Isabelle March's versions of "With Verdure Christian" from Haydins oratorio. "The Creation" and "Hear Ve, Israel" from Elijah", admirably recorded as studies as well as purely for themselves.

Once more and as ever Santa Claus on well as purely for themselves.

Once more and as ever Santa Claus in the person of Gilhert Girard appears, on a Christmas record, and this year he tells the children about Mother Goose land, reciting the old rhymes, with effectual interpolations such as squealing pigs, baa-baas, caws, brays, neighs, moost, quacks, meows, and other faunal physiological phenomena dear in the experience of childhood.

Matos, Symphosis Christmas and Matos, Symphosis Christmas and State and Wiotor Symphony Orchestra under Josef Pasternack, contributes a beautifully handled record of the Overture to Mozart's "Magic Flute" It is joyous, brilliant, with every note in the tone-palatte in perfect relation.

ARTIST, VISITS GRAYLING.

Here On Invitation to Advise Citizens On Good Methods to Make Homes More Attractive.

As we announced in the AVA-LANCHE last week. Mr. B. Eldon Shaffer, a well known Landscape ar Greenville, Mich., came to tist of Grayling last Monday to spend a few days in our city to confer with citizens on the problem of beautifying our homes and streets.

perience in this work and is credited with this laying out of many beautiful parks, cemeteries and homes in this and in other states. At present he is BOTTLE OF FRESH NOOSE and in other states. At present he is serving Montrealm County as agricultural agent. He is a personal friend of our esteemed agricultural agent, Mr. R. D. Bailey, and it was thru him, and by the backing of the Board of Trade, that Mr. Sheffer came to Grayling. He arrived in the city Monday afternoon and, with Mr. Bailey, started out on a tour of inspection about town, so as to gain a knowledge of general conditions of the place. In the evening he addressed a meeting of the Good Fellowship and Womans lubs and a few other citizens at the Board of Trade rooms.

After the meeting was called to orler by President Holger F. Peterson,
Mr. Bailsy made a few very interestng introductory remarks about Mr.
Shaffer, told something of his work and assured those present that they were very fortunate to have him with saying that landscape gardening had been studied and practiced ever since re was a great difference between a ome and just a place to live in. And n these present days landscape art y prized in many parts of the country, and that are found in abundance try, and that are found in abundance in this region, are not more generally used here. White birch is very popular in many places and he saw only one of these trees in Grayling. Nearly all kinds of pines grow abundantly here and are very desirable for planting in yards. Special suggestion was made that we plant white cedars—low and tail growing varieties.

The presence of so many Carolina poplar in our streets and yards, he said, was very unfortunate. He suggested that they be cut down and that we plant oak, basswood, or Norway maples in their places. Silverleaf maples should not be used.

There are two great types of landscape gardening. The formal type, when everything was planted in arrangements, with straight and square designs, was used for many years until the straight and square designs, was used for many years until the straight and square designs.

designs, was used for many years un-cil the naturalistic type was introduc-ed. The latter with its curves and irregular layouts, is much more beau-tiful and restful, and is more like nature, the greatest of landscape artists.
Towns of necessity are not natural but we should make them as nearly so as

He gave many valuable suggestion about lawns. He told of Gary, Ind., with its mountains of sands, is being made to blossom like a rose by the proper and thorough methods of planting lawns. In their construction they should be spaded deeply and the sol thoroughly worked. Fill the ground thoroughly worked. Fill the ground well with organic matter, manure and when possible use black dirt. Seed should not be sown deeply; use plenty of water. When no water is available, the ground should be well rolled. He suggested Kentucky and Canadian blue grass and white clover for lawns. For lawns already built, that are not define well.

For lawns already built, that are not doing well, he suggested that they ferfilibe annually with bone meal and pulverized sheep manure, which should be worked into the lawn early in the apring. Also use limestone where soil is sour. Work the manure well into the lawn with a sharp-tooth rake. Also manure spread upon the lawn and left all winter is good. He recommended 100 pounds of bone meal and 400 pounds of pulverized sheep manure for pounds of pulverized sheep manure for pounds of pulverized sheep manure for the average size lawn each year. He said he wouldn't spend much money in buying mixed fertilizers.

He gave a very interesting black-oard demonstration of the improper shrubbery in the yards. The house should be the center of attraction while trees and plants should be used to bring out the beauty of the house to bring out the beauty of the house. He gave many very excellent suggestions on their arrangements, and as to the more desirable kinds of trees and plants to be used. Trees should be planted sparingly in front of the walk, and the lawn left unbroken. Shrubbery should be planted in front and at the sides of the porches, and in the corners of the walks, with possibly small pines or other varieties of small trees interspersed among them. Along them.

corners of the walks, with possibly small pluss or other varieties of small trees interspersed among them. Along the back yard fence he would plant large flowering shrubs, such as high bush honeyauckies, lilacs, and othere of that mature. He gave many suggestions as to the planting and spraying of trees and shrubbery.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, althothe days were cold and stormy, assisted by Mr. Bailey, he visited many homes, where he had been specially invited, and there laid out many plans for beautifying the yards and homes, suggesting the bust, kinds and varieties of trees. He shrubs him as before he left, made suggestions as to before he left, made suggestions as to beautifying the streets, especially main street.

The address of Mr. Shaffer at the Board of Trade rooms and the assistance he gave to the citizens has had a wonderfully inspiring effect and we are sure that should he come to Graying some time in the near future years he will see results from the suggestions he so generously and wisely of fered at this time. He came here to assist us charging nothing for his valuable services, except his actual expenses which are paid by the Board of Trade; and we are sure that we speak the sentilment of our people when we say, that we are deeply grateful and appreciative, and sincerely thank him and Mr. Balley for all they have done of the Beard of Trade and experience of the Beard of Trade and expectations have the Beard of Trade and experience of the Beard of the map.

RULES ON RAIDS

UPHOLDS RIGHT OF OFFICERS TO ENTER HOMES TO STOP DISTURBANCE

POSSESSION OF LIQUOR IS FELONY

One Conviction Overruled Because Address Given On Search Warrant Was Incorrect.

Lansing-The Michigan supreme ourt has upheld the right of officers lo seize liquor, without a search war ant in cases where entrance to the dwelling or other place is made to quell a disturbance.

The case in which the opinion was rendered was the appeal of Frank-Woodward, convicted in the Ingham county courts of violation of the liquor law. According to the records of the case, a bottle of whisky was seized by officers who entered his home early one morning to quiet a disturbance. A majority opinion, A majority opinion, signed by five justices, affirmed his

"The officers did just what the statute permits, if not commands, the majority opinion declared. "The unlawful possession of liquor is a of criminality because it was in his own honie." A minority opinion, signed by Jus tices Weist, Fellows and Bird, uls agreed with the holding of the majority that seizure of liquor is legal when entrance to a dwelling, is made for other purposes and argued vehemently for the sanctity of the dwelling:

The dissenting justices held that entrance to the home was made pri-marily to search, and not to quell a riot. This belief was based upon testimony to the effect that search of the basement was made and other hottles of liquor discovered. The affirming minion however stated that the of ficers entered legally to quell a riot and that only a bettle of liquor, found on a table in the room in which the alleged disturbance occurred, was used in the prosecution. It also pointed to the law which declares that officers making an arrest for violation of the liquor-law may seize all evi dence, and pointed out that a man may violate the liquor law as surely in his own home as when he is found in possession of liquor in a club or a soft drink parlor.

- In another opinion, the court ruled search warrants used by police of-ficers in liquor raids must bear the correct address of the premises to be searched, in which the conviction of Dennie Musk, of Muskegon

Musk was convicted of violating ohibition law following a raid on his home. According to the offi ers, a still and quantity of whisky was confiscated.

The case was brought to the su preme court by the defense which claimed that the warrant under which the search was made, was illegal in that it described by house number, premises other than those actually occupied by Musk.

The horse, plunging, seemed to jerk her body back and forth, and endless seconds esemed to go by before the last of the thongs was severed. In reality the whole rescue was unbelievably swift. The man helped her all he could. "Up-up into the saddle," she

Once more the pistol cracked. Then the horse broke and ran-in a frenzy of terror. Bruce was full in the saddle by then, and even at the first leap his arm swept out to the girl on the ground beside him. He swung her towards him, and at the same time her hands caught at the arching back of the saddle. But to the right kind of man nature gives strength from her strength. By the girl's cabin stands a great sentinel pine. And from the army of pines at its back comes the strength that gives this city man the power to win at long odds from the evil clan of mountaineers that menaces him and the girl he loves.

> Of course he had no memories of her that first day, nor for the first years. But all later memories of the Square house always included her. She must have been nearly four years younger than himself; thus when he was taken to the house she was only an infant. But thereafter, the nurses put them together often; and when Linda was able to talk, she called him something that sounded like Bwavas boo. She called him that so often that for a long time he couldn't be sure that wasn't his real name. Now, in manhood, he interpreted.

> "Brother Bruce, of course. Linda was of course a sister." Linda had been homely; even a small boy could notice that. Besides, Linda was nearly six when Bruce had left for good; and he was then at an age in which impressions begin to be lasting. Her hair was quite blond then, and her features rather irregular. By his word, there had been! She had been angry at him times in plenty—over some childish game—and remembered how that light had grown and brightened. She had flung at him too. He laughed at the memory of her sudden, explosive feroc-ity—the way her hands had smacked ngainst his cheeks, and her sharp little nails had scratched him "Little Spit-fire," he sometimes called her; but no one else could call her anything but Linda. The lights that could be discerned in this strange, dark sky were largely unfamiliar to Bruce, because of the smoke-clouds that had always hung above the city where he lived. There were just stars, but there were so many of them that the mind was unable to comprehend their number. There was also a moon that cast a little square of light, like a fairy through the smoke of cities. vivid and quite white—the wilderness of the forest creatures. ### SCRIPTURES SPEAK OF WILD ASSES

Testament.

Wild asses are mentioned several times in the Old Testament; for instance, in Daniel 5:21. Referring to the punishment that came upon King Nebuchadnezzar, it is stated—"And he was driven from the sons of men; and his heart was made like the beasts. and his dwelling was with the wild ." An account of the wild asses in practically the country over which Nebuchadnezzar reigned, is given by an ancient Greek writer who had Assyria. This writer is Xenophon, who lived from 480 to 855 B. C. He was an officer with the Greek force that joined the expedition of Cyrus the Younger, king of Persia. When in that coun-try the officers of the Greek force were murdered, and taking command of the ten thousand of his countrymen, Kenophon led them northward through the creeps. # Frank Dreese

By reducing the stock to the desired limit, I have a prospective buyer. This stock was well selected when I started the new store. I have been to the market where I have made some good selections to fill in at this time, and purchased way below the early market price on broken lots. You will be surprised. In order to make this store attractive for Xmas and holidays and with good cheer I have selected some very good numbers in the various lines of toys and dolls that will help interest the children. It will cause you to remember this Xmas at this store, af ter it has passed from your memory.

This closing out sale will start Tuesday, December 12th, and will last until the stock is closed as stated above. I have secured extra help. Carefully note the prices made and come to this store early so you will receive the benefit and will not go away disappointed. Remember that this is a cash sale and no goods will be let out on approval. Watch for the big sign over the window and it will surprise you to notice how the goods have been bunched with big cards ready to reach and take in a moment's notice. Notice positively this store will be closed all day Monday (December 11th) to prepare for the sale
